The principle of "extra-territorial rights" is oftentimes carried too far into some other family circle.

When we read about Americans eating 11-cent turkey on Thanksgiving day, we make due allowances for they had to eat it on the Rhine.

It was a misfortune on Centennial field in Burlington last Tuesday—a misfortune that the St. Albans-Lyndon football game ended in a tie because that means more paper championship claims until another football season rolls around. The season no doubt is too late for the two aspirants for the championship to get together in another contest. Since an unsettled championship seems inevitable it is left to be said that both teams did credit to themselves in a memorable encounter.

Thanksgiving turkey took its place on the price toboggan along with the German marks, having dropped in New York Wednesday from 65 and 70 cents a pound to 40 and 45 cents, with a hint of further reduction to 25 cents. The buyers' strike had as much as anything to do with the sharp fall in price. The buyers have a mighty weapon in hand when they have a chance to choose between turkey and chuck roast.

THE MOTORIST WHO SPEEDS AWAY.

A case which demands attention of prosecuting officers and of the automobile department of the state occurred in Rutland last Thursday evening when an automobile struck a pedestrian, dragged him sixty feet and then ran over the victim, inflicting injuries, which may result in death. The situation would not be so bad were it not for the fact that the driver of the automobile, giving way to cowardly instincts, immediately turned off his lights to escape identification and sped away into the darkness. When the driver of a motor vehicle stops, after striking a pedestrian, and does all he can to relieve the suffering of the victim there is a softening of the criticism directed at the driver of the vehicle, no matter whether he may have been entirely to blame for the accident; but when a driver strikes a pedestrian and runs away without making a move to ascertain what injuries have been inflicted on the victim of the collision all sentiment of charity toward a misdeed is carried away. And justly so. For an act of inhumanity is added to an act of criminal responsibility. The driver who does so is not fitted to be the possessor of a license to operate a motor vehicle, and it is to be hoped that the state automobile department will co-operate with the prosecuting officers of Rutland with a view to fixing the identity of the party, to be followed by the imposing of the fitting punishment.

GREENE AND THE MATERNITY BILL.

Representative Frank L. Greene did not wage a winning fight against the federal maternity bill but he had the backbone to stand up to his convictions and speak and vote against the measure, which was passed by the House recently by an overwhelming majority. Representative Greene's idea is that the bill was not only an invasion of the home but that it was also putting into the hands of the federal government a little more of the control of the everyday affairs of life, thus weakening the morale of the individual and, perhaps, robbing the state governments of some of the prerogatives which they ought to retain if possible. The enactment of the bill would be, in Representative Greene's opinion, just another step toward that centralized government, the bureaucracy of which must be guarded against with much watchfulness.

In taking that stand, Representative Greene found himself somewhat alone in his outspokenness. But that comparative isolation did not deter him from talking from his earnest convictions. He made a spirited plea against the enactment of the bill but he failed in his purpose, as the roll call showed. However, that failure does not detract in the least from Greene's good reputation in the Green Mountain state. Vermonters are glad to know that they have a representative in Congress who is willing to stand by his guns regardless of whether he be on the popular side or not. This is not the first time that Frank Greene has shown independence of thought and courage of conviction, and the people of Vermont honor him for his firm stand.

BETHEL

Out-of-town guests for Thanksgiving day included Mr. and Mrs. George Davis and their son, Austin, of Tyngsboro, Mass., at A. G. Perkins'; Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Jondro of Lebanon, N. H., at Mrs. Rose Aldrich's; Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Southworth and two daughters of West Lebanon, N. H.; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Porter of Lancaster, N. H., at F. B. Southworth's; Mrs. Frank Buttle and two children of Randolph, at J. C. Manning's; Mr. and Mrs. Karl W. Perkins and son of Windsor and Ellery C. Howes of Shelburne, at A. L. Dinsmore's; Mr. and Mrs. Willard Crozier and daughter of Lebanon, N. H., at B. G. Bundy's; Miss Lillian Fairbanks of Claremont, N. H., at W. R. Briggs'; John E. Mazunian of Greenfield, Mass., at John J. Wilson's; Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bundy of Rochester at Guy Wilson's, and Mrs. Louise French of Woodstock at A. Lee Cady's.

Miss Grace Owen of Lebanon, N. H., is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Dorothy Curtis, at F. L. Martin's.

Among the people who are employed here and went to their homes for Thanksgiving were Jesse T. Moody to Stowe; Miss Dorothy Bliss to Cornwall; Miss Pauline Hartshorn to Warren; Miss Bessie Graves to Northampton, Mass., and Raymond Ebner to Thomaston, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Harding and their daughter, Justina, have gone to Boston for a visit and will spend the winter at their home in Stockton Falls, Me.

Griffith M. Owen has gone to his home in Concord, N. H.

Mrs. Jennie Dyke, a former resident, was here Thursday on her way from teaching in Sherburne to the home of her brother, John N. Taggart of Randolph Center for Thanksgiving.

Thanksgiving services were held on Thursday morning at Christ church.

Mrs. Angelina Granai and family have moved to Chicago.

Luigi Miro and his son, Libero, the latter a high school student and member of the football team, have gone to Italy for an indefinite stay.

Miss Bessie DuBois is visiting her sister in Albany, N. Y.

Miss Helen Brooks returned Wednesday from a six weeks' absence with friends in Chicago, Syracuse and Springfield, Mass.

Family gatherings on Thanksgiving day included those at the home of Mrs. Austin Annie, who entertained her six grown-up children; at Mrs. George Brown's; at Julius A. Preston's; at E. R. Ellis'; at F. C. LaRock's; at Dr. V. H. Eddy's; at W. E. Rhodes'; and at A. Lee Cady's.

Mayor Walter H. Creamer, formerly of Bethel, was re-nominated for a third term as mayor of Lynn, Mass., at a recent primary election.

Students home for Thanksgiving included Max W. Barrows and James J. Wilson from Norwich university; William C. C. Clifford, Jr., from Dartmouth college; Ralph Noble from Dartmouth college; Florian Parsons from Springfield high school and Miss Ruth Cushing from Dean academy.

A sagacious rooster marked for the Thanksgiving slaughter from John J. Wilson's flock betook himself to the woods just in time to avoid execution. Since the story of the rooster picking for roasters and the Wilsons half expect he will perish from hunger and half expect his return now that the Thanksgiving feasts are over.

Bethel residents who were out of town for the holiday included Mr. and Mrs. Harold Turner and son in Woodstock; Mrs. Vernon Dumas and Robert Dumas in Rochester; Mr. and Mrs. Guy W. Merrill and family in South Royalton; James P. Marsh in Wakefield, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. M. N. Kendall in Claremont, N. H.; Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Lyman and daughter in Randolph; Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Gay in White River Junction; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shaw and daughter in Barre, and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Bass in Randolph.

Among those who attended the funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Wynn at the Catholic church Wednesday were Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Wynn and William A. Wynn of St. Albans; Mrs. J. J. Rooney, Gladys Rooney and Thomas O'Horo of Fitchburg, Mass.; Mrs. R. P. Dolan of Greenfield, Mass.; P. Mack and J. J. Mack of Springfield, Mass.; Dominick Gallagher of West Lebanon, N. H.; Peter Armstrong, Patrick Armstrong and Mrs. James Sullivan of Barre; Mrs. Sarah Hurley of Rutland; P. O'Connor of Hartford; Mr. and Mrs. James Cannon of Rochester; Mrs. Thomas Wynn and Thomas Wynn of South Royalton. Rev. Father Ladd, the local priest, conducted the service.

Miss Amy Boyce is home from Springfield for an indefinite stay. Samuel C. Jebb, who works at White River Junction, and Elbert Jebb, who works at Northfield, were with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Jebb, for the holiday. Miss Elsie Sealing was home from teaching in Washington; Miss Jessie Parker from teaching in Montpelier and Miss Luella Atchinson from teaching in Middlefield, Conn.

RANDOLPH

Rev. Arthur J. LaVeer of Hardwick celebrated high mass at Saints Domination and Rogation church Thanksgiving day. Father LaVeer is a former pastor. Special music was rendered by the church choir, and a sermon appropriate to the occasion was delivered during the mass.

H. H. Goodwill left on Friday for St. George, New Brunswick, where he went to visit his parents for the first time in nine years.

A chimney fire called out the fire company on Friday afternoon about four o'clock. It proved to be a chimney fire in the Loomis block, but by the attention of the company there was no damage done.

Rev. and Mrs. Fraser Metzger and family, who have been to Waterbury for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Adams and family, returned home on Friday.

Mrs. E. A. Heath, a guest of her daughter, Mrs. C. H. Jones, in Montpelier, returned home Friday.

Rev. Frederick Leeds, after passing a few days here with Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Chase, left on Friday for New Haven, Conn., leaving Mrs. Leeds for a few days stay, when she will go home and take her parents with her for the winter, the Chase house being closed for the season.

W. G. Hodgkins and his daughter, Miss Della Hodgkins, after passing Thursday with W. D. Hodgkins and family, returned to their home in Rochester Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Yauvey were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Greene over Thursday and Friday returned to Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Eaton and their daughter, Miss Carrie Eaton, returned from Rochester Friday, where they had been to visit Mr. Eaton's brother and family.

Arnold Story was a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Mascham over Thursday and Friday morning returned to Montpelier.

Bethany Sunday school, through contributions of $101.85 in money, cooked food, vegetables, canned goods and groceries, helped 25 families to enjoy a Thanksgiving dinner, supplying all the necessities for a chicken dinner, with all the fixings. To 28 persons who were ill and shut in, boxes of fruit, sweets and nuts were sent.

Fred P. Goodwin of Boston is passing a few days with his parents Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Goodwin.

Mrs. C. E. Lazelle of White River Junction was the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. J. Stetie, this week.

A daughter, Catherine Evelyn, was born Saturday in Northfield, to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hathorn. The mother was Vera Cook before her marriage.

Willard Martin, who has been at Caspian lake for the last three months with Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Whitehill, has returned home.

P. T. Salisbury of Brooklyn, N. Y., visited his brothers, F. A. and Albert M. Salisbury, this week.

Dr. Anna Degenring of Elizabeth, N. J., came Sunday for a several days' stay with her sister, Mrs. E. C. Brownell.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Fish have returned from a several weeks' stay in Hartford, Conn.

Clarence S. Grow of New York has been the guest of his sister, Mrs. L. A. Russell, and his mother, Mrs. R. B. Grow.

Miss Emma Flint, clerk in the war risk insurance office in Washington, D. C., came Sunday for a two weeks' stay here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hale Flint. Mrs. W. D. Hamlin, her sister was in town over Thanksgiving day.

EAST CORINTH

A recent business transaction of some importance to the place is the sale of the gristmill property to Worthley brothers. They have taken possession and hired Henry T. Metcalf to run the mill, and we all wish success to the enterprise, although we are also very sorry to have the Baileys leave town.

C. C. Dickey is very low at this writing. Mrs. Arthur Brown is caring for him.

School has been having a week's holiday and when it opens next week it will be in the new building. Money enough has been raised to finish the hall which we hope will be done at an early date.

Madam Bromley and Lilla left for New York City Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Bromley hope to get away in about a week.

Irwin Worthley spent Thanksgiving with his aunt in Orford.

Our students from St. Johnsbury, Barre and Bradford are all home for the holiday.

The Risk of Success

Henry Ford says in a recent issue of the Dearborn Independent, "More men are beaten by success than failure. There are men who cannot be defeated by difficulty and disappointment; but before praise, reward and recognition, they go tumbling down."

As the old saying goes, "They can't stand prosperity."

How true this is in connection with thrift!

Many good men make a start toward saving money; they get a few hundred dollars in the bank, but the exultation over their first achievement oftentimes binds them to further possibilities.

Saving and thrift should be a perpetual process, a steady habit and a fixed characteristic.

Children should get the habit of going to the bank and parents will do well to set them a good example so that the habit may be formed in youth and then when they get older they will be able to "stand prosperity."

Make this strong bank your family bank; we want you to feel at home here and use its facilities to the utmost.
